THE DEMOCRATIC LOVE FEAST.

The Democratic Love Feast-for such it has been from the beginning to the end ... 's over. Most of the visitors have returned to the homes animated by a patriotic devotion, deeper and greater and more glowing than ever animated them before.

It was good to be here, and every man who heard the earnest and elequent and patriotic addresses was inspired with a new determination to work for Democratic success.

The State Convention of Democratic Clubs was a great success from beginning to end.

In the last two days, the CHRONICLE has said some plain things to those who claim to be Democrats, and yet for one reason or another scratch the Democratic ticket at each election, and vote for Republicans against men of the highest character who have been put up by the Democracy as its representatives. We have said these things because we believe they ought to be said, and we intend to keep it up.

What right has any man, who cares for his people at this time, when the Republican party does not hesitate to manifest in every way it can sectional hatred towards our people upon all politcal and economic questions, and a time when the Democratic party is trying to protect our people from the anarchy and corruption experienced during the reconstruction-something every decent man is interested in-what right has any man who calls himself a Democrat to vote for a nominee of the Republican party under such circumstances? None whatever.

THE BIG BARBECUE.

More Than Two Thuosand People Eat and are Happy .- Some Hot Meats tor a Hot Campaign.

There's no telling exactly how many people were at the speaking and barbecue given at Brookside Park yesterday, but dinner had been prepared for more than two thousand people, and after dinner nothing was left on the tables except some loaves of bread. Hence, of people present, and they evidently enjoyed the day.

The day was cloudy, but not a drop of rain, and pleasantly cool-in fact, a day well suited to the occasion.

At 11:45 the Durham band went up the signal for the crowd to go out. Following the band were carriages in which were seated Senator Vance, Congressman Bunn, Governor Fowle, Mayor Alf. A. Thompson, R. H. Battle, Esq., and Caps. Great quantities of goods are arriving others, and behind these were many every day and being dumped in front of other carriages, forming a considerable procession. Every street car that went People begun to wonder yesterday if out to the park was leaded down to its room for "one more," and by 12:30 eager to hear Vance speak.

The orators chose the park pavilion as the place for the speaking, and when accident until 7:30 yesterday morning. Chambers Smith, Esq., announced that State Auditor Sanderlin would present Senator Vance.

Dr. Sanderlin performed his duty in that easy, fluent and delightful manner peculiarly his own, and then the Senator talked to that crowd and chained them around the pavilion for nearly three hours.

He was followed by Congressman Bunn, who spoke about five minutes, and then Mr. R. H. Battle told the people that a substantial dinner was riving, and cannot be duplicated when G waiting in the lower section of the park once sold. We have endeavored to pro to be eaten up, and that there was enough for everybody, and everybody this fall, and we trust the above advice was expected to help dispose of it.

At this announcement some lines and over a carpet of rich grass.

There were special tables for the ladies and quite a number were out who seemed to enjoy the proceedings and the dinner

Everybody went for the viands with an unbiased will and a most glorious the election of Mr. Chas. M. Busbee, of appetite. A great many fellows proceeded to load up plates with such morsels as suited their fancy, and then they would take the plates to some luxuriant grassy spot, stretch themselves upon the grass and just revel in the spicy, richly flavored and melting meats and flaky bread.

Some "tender-feet" were heard to remark that the meats were too hot; but the genial Dr. Blacknall, who was the commissary general of the occasion, explained this matter by saying that it was time to get hot; that it was going to be a hot campaign, and he wanted to begin to get things up to steaming and moving heat. The Doctor was immensely successful in this project.

It took about an hour to discuss the dinner, and then there was an informal reassembling around the pavilion. Somebody called for "Buck" Kitchen to speak. He responded and his thundering tones and driving logic and clear and concise statements of current issues were listened to for some time by a very greatly interested audience.

This concluded the day, and everybody came from the park in a happy humor.

THE WORLD'S COMMERCE.

New York, Sep ember 25.-Mesors. Hubbard, Price & Company, in their cotton circular to-night say: The rainfall throughout the cotton belt east of the Mississippi river for the twenty-four hours ending 1 st evening was exceptionally heavy. The damage that is reported to have resulted is no doubt great, and though we think perhaps it is somewhat exaggerated, its effect has been to alarm the shorts and create a sharper demand to recover contracts upon which have been advanced an average of twelve points in New Orleans and two to four points in Liverpool. The short interests are no doubt this evening much reduced, and although the dispatches from the South are of a truly alarming character, they are not as yet fully credited, and are not likely to lead to any fresh buying for the long account unless they are substantially confirmed. Our cables from Liverpool are to the effect that spinners are pretty well under contract and likely to buy freely on an advancing market.
